

PRESS RELEASE

CIRCULAR TEXTILE DAYS: 5 & 6 JUNE 2023

Take note cause Circular Textile Days 2023 will be an even larger, informative and inspiring event than the previous editions. It will take place on June, 5 and 6 2023, in 's Hertogenbosch, The Netherlands.

Sustainability and circularity shall no longer 'be ignored' in our industry. Within the law and regulations, more and more is expected of these key-pointers, both within and outside the Dutch borders. Partnerships and collaborations are essential to realize the requested, demanded, change. Reason enough to invite you all to participate in or visit Circular Textile Days, where cooperation and matchmaking is of paramount importance.

There are various options for organisations that want to participate, such as: exhibiting, sponsoring, pitching and showcasing at the Innovation Forum or the stages. For visitors: registration will be possible soon and for now: Save The Date!

Why Circular Textile Days

The relevance of Circular Textile Days is increasing each year. Research from the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), shows that we need to take action urgently. About 20% of the global clean water pollution is caused by dyeing and finishing of textiles. And despite many positive initiatives still less than 1% of our clothes is made of recycled textile. We are bound to run out of resources and the enormous clothing-waste pile is polluting our earth. We can, and must, do better!

News, facts and innovations

At the Circular Textile Days event, exhibitors, knowledge institutes, workshop coaches and many other participants will showcase their novelties, give an insight in circular business practices and share knowledge about circular textile, sustainable solutions and more. You will find the current status of circular technologies, backed up by reliable information and facts. Plenty to start working with, right away.

Interaction and learning

The program promises to be very varied and exciting. On the main stage we will offer inspiring topics that will interest a large audience, and on the expert stage specialist topics will be highlighted. In addition, there will be pitches at the Innovation Forum, workshops and discussions and, of course, networking opportunities and matchmaking. In short: Inspire and be inspired!

Networking and partnerships

The Circular Textile Days community has grown more international again. It is 'THE PLACE TO BE', for all interested in circularity and sustainability in textile. More and more textile sectors are joining the event, such as: work/ promotional wear, fashion, lingerie, sportswear, home textiles. Participating and visiting professionals include producers, end-users, trade associations and test- and knowledge institutes. This makes it an ideal place to extend your network and find opportunities for business partnerships with various parties of the entire circular textile value chain.
